

Innovative Research on College Art Education based on the Cultural Experience of Women's Book Symbols

Li Jiang^{1,*}

¹Hunan International Economics University , China

Abstract: Women's calligraphy, also known as female calligraphy, is a kind of writing style used by women in ancient China. It has become a unique and attractive form of writing art with its unique strokes and character characteristics. This paper discusses innovative paths for the experience of women's calligraphy symbolic culture in college art education, emphasizing the importance of integrating women's calligraphy symbolic culture resources, innovating ways of teaching women's calligraphy symbolic culture and advocating interdisciplinary cooperation and cross-cultural exchange. Through interdisciplinary cooperation and cross-cultural communication, it can enrich the expression and connotation of Women's Calligraphy symbolic culture in college art education, cultivate students' comprehensive literacy and cross-cultural cognition, and promote the inheritance and development of Women's Calligraphy symbolic culture in contemporary art and design fields.

Keywords: women's calligraphy symbolic culture experience; college art education; innovation research

Introduction:

Women's Calligraphy is a unique Chinese writing system, the only one created and used by women in the world, which originated in JiangYong County, Hunan Province, China. In recent years, with the re-examination and inheritance of traditional culture, the symbolic culture of Women's Calligraphy has received more and more attention in art education in colleges and universities. It has become a hot topic of research on how to innovate the experience of women's calligraphy symbolic culture in college art education, promote its dialogue with contemporary art and design, and integrate interdisciplinary cooperation and cross-cultural communication. In this paper, we will discuss in depth the innovative path of women's calligraphy symbolic cultural experience in college art education by exploring the integration of women's calligraphy symbolic cultural resources, innovative teaching methods, and advocating interdisciplinary cooperation and cross-cultural communication.

1. Characteristics and Development of Women's Calligraphy

Women's calligraphy is a writing system created and used by women in Jiangyong County, Hunan Province, China, which makes women's calligraphy have obvious gender characteristics. First, women create and use it. The creators and users of the Women's Script are mostly local women and young girls, and their writing activities usually take place in informal settings such as families, communities, and women's groups. The development of women's writing is influenced by the social status, family roles, and gender concepts of local women, reflecting the roles and status of women in the family and society. Second, female is known for their unique writing form. The basic symbols of the female script are

Corresponding Author: Li Jiang

Hunan International Economics University , China

Email:63743088@qq.com

©The Author(s) 2023. Published by BON VIEW PUBLISHING PTE. LTD. This is an open access article under the CC BY simple in composition, consisting of a combination of basic dots, crosses, verticals, folds, and apostrophes in a variety of different and rich forms. The strokes of the female script symbols are smooth and varied, with strong artistic and decorative qualities. The writing style of women's calligraphy is flexible and changeable, and it can be written by character stroke by stroke or line by line, forming a unique writing style. Third, the diverse application fields. In the process of its development, women's calligraphy has been gradually applied to different fields. In addition to being a writing tool, women's calligraphy has also been used in many art fields such as painting, embroidery, engraving and printing, and framing. Women's calligraphy has been endowed with rich aesthetic connotation and symbolic meaning in artistic creation and has become a unique cultural symbol. Fourth, cultural inheritance and innovation: As a traditional writing system, Women's Calligraphy has been inherited and developed by many generations of women since its origin in Jiangyong County. Women's Calligraphy has evolved in the course of history, absorbing the writing traditions and artistic elements of different regions and ethnic groups, forming a rich and diverse cultural experience of Women's Calligraphy. At the same time, women's calligraphy has also been innovated and inherited in modern times, and through digital technology and cross-border cooperation, it has continued to innovate and integrate into contemporary society and artistic creation, showing its vitality and potential. It can be seen that, as a unique Chinese writing system, the characteristics of women's calligraphy are mainly reflected in the creation and use of gender, unique writing forms, diverse application fields, and cultural inheritance and innovation. In the process of its development, women's calligraphy is not only a writing tool but also a cultural experience, rich in multiple meanings of society, history, gender, and art (Peng & Fan, 2022).

License(<https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/>).

2. The positive impact of promoting women's calligraphy culture on art education in colleges and universities

As a unique Chinese writing system and the only script created and used by women in the world, women's calligraphy is characterized by its emphasis on the decorative and artistic nature of writing forms, cultural heritage, and innovation, stimulating students' creativity and aesthetic sensibilities, and promoting cultural diversity and international exchange. In college art education, introducing women's calligraphy culture can enrich teaching contents and methods, expand students' artistic learning fields, cultivate students' writing ability and calligraphic art cultivation, emphasize cultural inheritance and innovation, stimulate students' creative inspiration and creative expression, and promote students' artistic aesthetics and cultural experience. Therefore, promoting women's calligraphy culture has a positive impact on art education in colleges and universities.

2.1 Enriching teaching contents and methods

As a unique writing system, women's calligraphy can inject new teaching contents and methods into art education in colleges and universities. By introducing women's calligraphy culture, teachers can combine women's calligraphy with traditional teaching contents such as painting and calligraphy to expand students' art learning field and enhance their creative inspiration and aesthetic interest. At the same time, the simple and fluent writing form of women's calligraphy is suitable for teaching basic calligraphy knowledge and skills, and can be used as an effective writing tool to develop students' writing skills and calligraphic art (Li , 2022).

2.2 Emphasis on cultural inheritance and Innovation

Women's calligraphy emphasizes cultural inheritance and innovation, which helps cultivate students' respect and understanding of traditional culture. Through studying women's calligraphy, students can understand the origin, development, and evolution of women's calligraphy, gain insight into the role and status of women in history and society, and prompt students to pay attention to and think about gender equality and women's culture. At the same time, the modern innovation and inheritance of women's calligraphy can also stimulate students' creative consciousness and innovation ability, and cultivate their interdisciplinary thinking and comprehensive artistic creative ability.

2.3 Stimulating Students' Creativity and aesthetic interest

The writing form of female calligraphy is very artistic, which can stimulate students' creativity and aesthetic interest. In terms of appearance, the writing form of women's calligraphy is simple and smooth, focusing on the rhythm and ornamentation of strokes, which can inspire students' creative inspiration and creative expression (Huang, 2022). At the same time, the application of women's calligraphy in art fields such as painting, embroidery, and engraving also provides students with interdisciplinary creative opportunities and expands their artistic expression and creative skills.

2.4 Promoting cultural diversity and international exchange

As a treasure of traditional Chinese culture, women's calligraphy has rich national and local characteristics. Promoting women's calligraphy culture in college art education, can promote the inheritance and development of cultural diversity and enrich students' artistic aesthetics and cultural experience. At the same time, women's calligraphy also has the potential for international exchange and can promote the dissemination and exchange of women's calligraphy in the international art arena through international cooperation and exchange, and promote the integration and exchange of Chinese and foreign cultures.

3. The innovative path of women's calligraphy symbolic culture experience in college art education

3.1 Integrating the symbolic cultural resources of women's calligraphy

Art education in colleges and universities can incorporate the symbolic culture of women's calligraphy into the teaching content by integrating the symbolic cultural resources of women's calligraphy, including women's calligraphy writing, women's calligraphy painting, women's calligraphy carving, and so on. Teachers can guide students to understand the history, background, and connotation of women's calligraphy culture by introducing the origin, evolution, characteristics, and transmission of women's calligraphy. At the same time, students can be guided to learn the basic writing methods and techniques of Women's Calligraphy, experience the writing process and artistic value of Women's Calligraphy through practice, and perceive the unique charm of the symbols of Women's Calligraphy. In practice, students can use the basic structure and strokes of female calligraphy symbols and integrate them into their paintings to create unique paintings of female calligraphy symbols (Bo & Zhang, 2021). As an example, a painting of Women's Calligraphy symbols, Dreamland, is an oil painting that uses traditional painting techniques and incorporates the cultural resources of Women's Calligraphy symbols. In the picture, the artist constructs an imaginative and dreamy realm by drawing strokes rich in the characteristics of Women's Calligraphy. By using the strokes and structure of the Women's Calligraphy symbols, the artist creates unique patterns and textures, presenting the unique flavor of the Women's Calligraphy symbol culture. At the same time, the artist also expresses a unique insight into nature, life, and the universe through the combination and arrangement of Women's Calligraphy symbols. The Women's Calligraphy symbols are skillfully integrated into the picture, blending and echoing with other painting elements to form a creative and individual work (Qu & Rao, 2021). Thus, it can be seen that by integrating the cultural resources of women's calligraphy symbols and combining them with traditional painting techniques, women's calligraphy symbols can be used innovatively in college art education to enrich students' creative language and creative approach and to stimulate their creative inspiration and innovative ability. At the same time, through this innovative path, students can experience and understand the women's calligraphy symbol culture more deeply and promote the inheritance and development of women's calligraphy symbol culture in college art education.

3.2 Innovative teaching methods of Women's calligraphy symbolic culture

Art education in colleges and universities can enable students to experience the symbolic culture of women's calligraphy more deeply through innovative teaching methods. For example, by organizing women's calligraphy competitions, women's calligraphy art exhibitions, and women's calligraphy practice, students can participate in the inheritance and innovation of women's calligraphy symbol culture and perceive the aesthetic characteristics and cultural connotation of women's calligraphy symbols. At the same time, students can be encouraged to use women's calligraphy symbols to create, to give full play to their creativity and imagination, and to explore new ways of expressing women's calligraphy symbols in contemporary art. In the traditional teaching of women's calligraphy symbols, students are mainly exposed to and learn the culture of women's calligraphy symbols through calligraphy courses and the study of traditional brush and ink works. However, with the development of technology, modern digital tools offer new possibilities for innovative ways of teaching women's calligraphy symbolic culture (Peng , 2022). For example, digital drawing software and hardware are used to allow students to practice writing and drawing women's calligraphy symbols in a virtual environment. Students can practice and create women's calligraphy symbols by using digital brushes on tablets or electronic drawing boards to simulate the characteristics of traditional women's calligraphy strokes. This approach can help students understand the construction and strokes of female calligraphy symbols more intuitively, while also increasing their ability to use digital drawing tools and developing their creative thinking and technical skills. Another example is virtual reality (VR) technology, where teachers can create an immersive cultural experience environment of female calligraphy symbols, and students can wear VR headsets and enter a virtual space for writing female calligraphy symbols, and write and practice female calligraphy symbols through gestures and movements. This approach allows students to immerse themselves in the process and atmosphere of writing women's calligraphy symbols and deepen their experience and understanding of women's calligraphy symbol culture. By using modern technology, the innovative way of teaching women's calligraphy symbol culture can stimulate students' interest and participation, and enhance the teaching effect of women's calligraphy symbol culture. At the same time, this innovative way also helps to combine the women's calligraphy symbolic culture with modern technology and promote the inheritance and development of women's calligraphy symbolic culture in contemporary society.

3.3 Emphasizing the dialogue between women's calligraphy symbolic culture and contemporary art

Art education in colleges and universities can promote the integration of women's calligraphy symbolic culture and contemporary art by guiding students to dialogue between women's calligraphy symbolic culture and contemporary art. For example, by studying the use of women's calligraphy symbols in contemporary art, students can be guided to engage in creative practice and combine women's calligraphy symbols with other art forms to create new artworks. At the same time, teachers can also encourage students to use women's calligraphy symbols to explore contemporary social and cultural issues, bring into play the unique perspectives and expressions of women's calligraphy symbols, and stimulate students' creativity and innovative thinking through the integration of modern art elements. Taking contemporary painting as an example, women's calligraphy symbolic culture can be combined with contemporary painting techniques and styles to form a new artistic language and expression (Jing & Li , 2022). For example, in a modern painting, a unique decorative and compositional effect can be formed by using women's calligraphy symbols as part of the picture. The form, strokes, and arrangement of the female calligraphy symbols can echo with other artistic elements in the work, forming a unique visual effect. At the same time, as a unique cultural symbol, women's calligraphy symbols can also give the works a richer cultural connotation and provoke the viewer to think about and explore the culture of women's calligraphy symbols. By integrating the women's calligraphy symbol culture with contemporary art elements, a dialogue between women's calligraphy symbol culture and contemporary art can be realized, enriching the creative content and methods in college art education and stimulating students' creativity and innovative potential. This dialogue can promote the inheritance and development of women's calligraphy symbolic culture in the field of contemporary art and form richer and more diverse artistic expressions.

3.4 Promote interdisciplinary cooperation and cross-cultural exchange

Art education in colleges and universities can promote the innovation of women's calligraphy symbolic culture experience through interdisciplinary cooperation and cross-cultural communication. It can cooperate with other disciplines, such as history, cultural studies, and linguistics, to jointly study the historical, linguistic, and aesthetic aspects of women's calligraphy symbolic culture and deepen the cognition of women's calligraphy symbolic culture. At the same time, it can introduce and integrate the resources of women's calligraphy symbolic culture from different regions and cultural backgrounds through cooperation and exchange with other schools, domestic and foreign art colleges, and cultural institutions to expand students' horizons and enhance their experience and understanding of women's calligraphy symbolic culture (Zhou , 2023). Taking design majors as an example, women's calligraphy symbolic culture can be used in interdisciplinary cooperation with disciplines such as design and media studies to form innovative interdisciplinary works. For example, in design courses, students can be guided to use elements of the Women's Calligraphy symbolic culture, such as symbols, glyphs, and lines, to conceptualize and express their design works. By integrating women's calligraphy symbols with design principles and design elements, design works with unique styles and cultural connotations can be created. For example, students can design fonts, patterns, logos, and other visual identity systems using the strokes and glyphs of the Women's Calligraphy symbols, thus forming a brand image with the cultural characteristics of the Women's Calligraphy symbols. This approach can enable students to deeply understand the expressions and connotations of the Women's Calligraphy symbol culture in practice, and at the same time can cultivate students' design thinking, aesthetic awareness, and cultural innovation ability.

Conclusion:

As a unique Chinese writing system, Women's Calligraphy is not only an instrumental writing style but also a cultural phenomenon. Through its unique writing form, diverse application fields, and cultural inheritance and innovation, women's calligraphy has brought new innovative research directions for college art education, enriched teaching contents, and methods, expanded students' artistic experiences and promoted the development and prosperity of art education. In the future, as the in-depth research and application of women's calligraphy continue to expand, the innovative research of women's calligraphy in college art education will continue to develop in-depth, making positive contributions to the cultivation of more artistic talents with creativity and cultural taste.

Conflict of Interest

The authors declare that they have no conflicts of interest to this work.

Acknowledgement

This research was funded by "Research on the Application of Nushu Symbols in Cultural and Creative Products from the perspective of Cultural Experience" , Philosophy and Social Science

Foundation Project of Hunan Province in 2022 ,
Project No: 20YBA152.

References

- Peng, Y., & Fan, B. (2022). The application of jiang yong women's book in design. Hunan Packaging, 2022(06), 137–139, 183.
- Li, D. (2022). Exploring the strategy of cultivating students' innovation ability in art education in colleges and universities. Footwear Technology and Design, 2(24).77-79
- Huang, Raishu. (2022). Innovation and development of college art education in the era of digital media. Beauty and Times (in Chinese), No.945(06), 108–110.
- <https://doi.org/10.16129/j.cnki.mysdz.2022.06.058>
- Bo, X., & Zhang, X. (2021). Research on the living heritage and practice of women's book culture in local college art and design education. Comparative Study of Cultural Innovation, 05(07), 136–139.
- Qu, Y., & Rao, J. (2021). Research on the application of " women's calligraphy" symbols in women's accessories design. Tomorrow's Fashion, 2021(21), 140–142.

- Peng, P. (2022). Contemporary symbolic view of women's books. Chinese Cultural Forum, 2022(01), 19–25.
- Jing, Y., & Li, Z. (2022). Research on the design application of women's calligraphy symbols in national fashion clothing. Western Leather, 44(13), 101–103.
- Zhou, Y. (2023). Experimental discussion on the symbolic aesthetic characteristics and symbolic connotation of the core elements of women's book culture. Tiannan, 2023(01), 70–73.

How to Cite: Jiang, L. (2023). Innovative Research on College Art Education based on the Cultural Experience of Women's Book Symbols. Contemporary Education and Teaching Research, 04(05),232-243.
<https://doi.org/10.47852/bonviewCETR232010120509>